About the Jewish Community Relations Council of Long Island (JCRC-LI)

The mission of JCRC-LI is to inform and mobilize the Long Island community to take action locally, nationally, and internationally to address community relations issues important to both the Jewish and non-Jewish communities. JCRC-LI focuses on serving as an umbrella for Jewish institutions across Long Island, fostering positive and meaningful inter-group relationships, serving as a resource for information and advocacy about Israel and international affairs to the Jewish and non-Jewish communities of Long Island and maintaining an on-going dialogue between the Jewish community and governmental officials at the local, state and federal level.

About the Henry Kaufmann Campgrounds (HKC)

Henry Kaufmann Campgrounds is a non-profit dedicated to Jewish day camping. With more than 500 acres of beautiful land in Long Island, Rockland County and Staten Island, HKC serves as home to 16 different JCC and Y summer day camps.

About The Israel Sport Center for the Disabled (ISCD)

The Israel Sport Center for the Disabled is an international pioneer in the field of sports as rehabilitation for disabled people. For more than 50 years, our remarkable staff and volunteers have encouraged the disabled to participate in a variety of sports activities. Today, more than 3,000 kids and adults participate in 20 different sports activities regardless of religion, race or ethnicity.
